senate, would divorce the commerce department and the federal loan agency, which includes the huge Reconstruction Finance Corp. It has been backed by administration supporters to remove obstacles to senate confirmation of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce. Democratic leaders expected it to be brought before the house tomorrow.

Wolcott's announcement came in the face of an informal agreement along Democrats providing for rules committee clearance of the bill subject to only one of Wolcott's amendments. That would remove the secretary of commerce from the Export-Import Bank board of directors.

As Wolcott drafted the amendment yesterday, it called for a reorganized board of five members confirmed by the senate. The confirmed by the senate. The members would be required to devote their principal attention to the bank's affairs.

The other Wolcott amendments would change the second war powers act to prohibit future shifts of government agencies by executive order and would require adults by the general accounting office by government-controlled as well as government-owned corporations.

Wolcott promised a floor fight if the rules committee rejected his Export-Import Bank amendment in favor of a simpler one providing only for removal of the secretary of commerce from the board. If he loses that fight, however, he will offer the one affecting only the secretary of commerce.

It was indicated that the rules committee would not provide special safeguards for the Wolcott amendments. One Southern Democrat, who favors keeping Wallace off the Export-Import Bank board, believed that Wolcott's proposal to reorganize the board then would be discarded on grounds it was not a properly related subject. He believed that the simpler amendment would be in order.

Administration supporters have lost one club in the rules committee dispute. They might have tried to by-pass the committee and bring the bill to the house today under an alternative procedure. However, the judiciary committee filed a higher priority claim to available time.

There was no labor representation on the delegation, an exclusion likely to sound the alarm siren among some of the President's union supporters. But the service man with a gun float or in a fox-hole will be represented by the big bodied blond young man from Minnesota.

Other members of the United States delegation will be former Secretary of State Cordell Hull with the courtesy title of senior adviser, Chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee, Chairman Sol Bloom, D. N. Y., of the house foreign affairs committee, and Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, of Barnard College, New York City.

There were some strictly off-record but emphatic senate protests against the delegation personnel. Senators are jealous of their treaty powers. Among them it was remarked that the two house members, Bloom and Eaton, had no business on the delegation.

Stassen's selection was condemned as a political reward for Ball's bolt rather than as recognition of the fighting services.

Nice Program Posed

Mr. Roosevelt has posed a nice problem for some Republicans by naming Vandenberg to the delegation. The senator recently has been discussing foreign relations in a manner both forceful and challenging. A great many Republicans, including Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, have made public many public commitments to his ideas. Now, if Vandenberg joins in making a treaty which he reports conforms with his major objectives, it will be difficult, but not impossible, for others to go all out in challenge to the pact. Persons who know Mr. Roosevelt well around here do not doubt he is having a chuckle about that—wherever he may be.

Discussing the delegation, Connally said: "The President recognizes the functions of the senate and his action indicates his desire to have the utmost cooperation between the senate and the executive."

Ball expressed approval of the whole trend of foreign policy as charted at the Crimean conference by Mr. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Marshal Josef V. Stalin. Ball's statement seemed to insure that Stassen would jump at the chance to appear again on the political stage. He is serving now on the staff of Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr. Eaton is expected to accept delegate membership, but is a much lesser figure in the party than either Vandenberg or Stassen.

WORK - OR - ELSE BILL FATE LEFT IN UNCERTAINTY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The fate of the work-or-else bill was left in doubt today by the lack of senatorial unity on the important issue of compulsory vs. voluntary controls for manpower.

The senate military affairs committee will wind up hearings on the bill tomorrow after war department officials renew demands for its passage. Today's witnesses included representatives of organized labor and Ernest L. Bell, Jr., counsel for the Citizens National Committee for National War Service.

Chairman Elbert Thomas, D. Utah, said he did not think the committee would be ready to vote on the bill this week.

"I don't think it has become united on its outlook," he explained.

There was no sign of committee unity at any time in the near future. Best guesses at the end of two weeks testimony were that the committee still was about evenly divided.

GROW AND CAN BUREAU PLEADS TO CITIZENS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—Grow a vegetable garden and can as much as possible this year—that's the government's plea as Spring planting time approaches.

War Food Administrator Marvin Jones today renewed his appeal for a full quota of victory gardens in 1945, saying that increased war needs for food will not be serious if everybody helps out on the production end.

"The surest way to guarantee a full supply of fruit and vegetables for home use is to grow a garden and do as much home canning as possible," he said. "There will also be need for millions of people from the city to help the farmer grow and harvest his crops."

waiting for it to subside. The Germans said the partial destruction of the Roer dams would hold up their expected offensive onto the Cologne plain for many days.

The Germans reported that American heavy bombers today hit Dreden and other objectives in the path of the advancing Red Armies. It seemed probable that the co-ordinated operations were the result of joint Allied staff consultations at the Crimean conference.

In the ground fighting, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army reached the Queis river on a nine-mile front yesterday and was expected to cross the barrier without great difficulty. North-east of Berlin, Russian forces advanced to within five miles of the Danzig-Stettin railway.

The Second and Third Ukrainian armies re-grouped in Hungary under 73 generals to resume offensives aimed at Vienna, Bratislava and Bohemia after ending the 50-day siege of Budapest with its capture. It was announced that 49,000 enemy troops were killed and 110,000 captured in the siege.

CALVARY LENT SERVICES WILL START TONIGHT

The Calvary Evangelical church, of Cincinnati, in cooperation with the Evangelical churches of the Ohio Conference, has entered upon a seven-week united effort in Lenten evangelism. The meeting in the local church Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock, will mark the first in a series of Wednesday night preaching missions.

The Rev. B. F. Borcoman, pastor of the church, will present a sermon in pictures. Illustrations will be shown on the screen.

These Lenten meetings are open to the public and all friends as well as members of Calvary church are invited to attend. These services will lead up to a two-week special revival campaign, ending on Easter Sunday.

Following the service tonight, the choir of the church will meet for rehearsal.

COMMISSIONERS AGREE TO FIX COUNTY LINE

Pickaway county commissioners Tuesday agreed to cooperate with Franklin county officials in determining the line between the two counties. A petition had been presented by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company which stated the line between Harrison township, Pickaway county, and Hamilton township, Franklin county, was vague and indefinite.

Commissioners instructed County Engineer Henry T. McCrady to work with Franklin county officials in determining the line.

Charles Cline Carney, Route 1, Lockbourne, charged by police with reckless driving, was fined $15 in juvenile court Tuesday.

Washington Observers Betting That Russia Will Join War On Japs

ready has a huge army in Siberia. Additional troops could be readily transferred by rail from Europe.

Japs On Border

Even now, while Russia and Japan are at peace, the existence of a big Red Army in Siberia has proven advantages to the United States. The presence of that force has led the wary Japanese to keep the Kwantung army, their most seasoned, toughest force, in Manchuria and Korea. This has kept an estimated 20 to 35 Japanese divisions of troops out of the war against the U. S.

Elsewhere in China, the Japanese are believed to have 18 to 20 other divisions.

Thus, if Russia were to go to war against Japan it would engage the bulk of Japan's mobilized fighting strength. This would facilitate considerably the eventual American invasion of the Japanese homeland.

Other advantages which the United States would gain from Russian participation in the Pacific war include:

1. Possible use of air and naval bases in Siberia for the attack on Japan proper.
2. Access to weather information vital to military operations against Japan.
3. Possible use of the Russian transportation system to supply China with lend-lease weapons and other materials.
4. Use of Russia's Siberian-based submarine fleet against enemy shipping in the Japan sea.
5. Diversion of some of the Japanese fleet-destroyers and destroyer-escorts to the Japan sea for anti-submarine duty.

Russia, the observers pointed out, could hardly be expected to go to war against Japan for purely selfish motives. There are certain practical advantages for Russia involved in such a move—political, economic and military advantages.

Russia would have a chance to regain Port Arthur, which it lost to the Japanese in 1904. It would help re-establish the independence of Korea, which Russia desires as one of a series of buffer states along its Siberian border to insure against the encroachment of the Japanese empire. The Russians are also eager to regain the southern end of Sakhalin island, which has been in Japanese hands since 1904.

The Russians also would stand to benefit by the good will their participation might create among their capitalist allies. This in turn might make easier the postwar financing that will be necessary to reestablish her industry.

SIZE OF FARM LABOR FORCE AT RECORD LOW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The Feb. 1 size of the farm labor force, composed of hired workers and farm families, stood at the lowest level on record for that date, the agriculture department reported today. The total was 8,051,000, or four percent below last year and 11 percent under the pre-war average. In explanation of the decline, the department made no reference to the recently accelerated drafting of youthful farmers. It said

"unfavorable weather was partly responsible for the lowest February level of farm employment in more than two decades of record." The number of farm family workers was 145,000 below last year while there were 187,000 fewer hired laborers.

Mrs. Joseph Peters entertained the members with a piano solo, playing Chopin's Waltz. Miss Marie L. Hamilton presented a timely article on Abraham Lincoln. Miss Beatrice Sprague sang two selections, "My Hero," from "The Chocolate Soldier" and "The Norwegian Song." Mrs. R. C. McAllister played the piano accompaniments. Loyal Daughters' Class
Twenty-eight members and guests of the Loyal Daughters' class of the First United Brethren church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Roby, of East Main street. A unique and most interesting program was presented, in charge of Mrs. Russell Jones and Mrs. Frank Hawkes.

The devotionals and program were given as a radio broadcast of the U. B. church, Circleville. Announcers were Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Hawkes. After group singing and prayer by Mrs. Fred Zwicker, teacher of the class, the inspiring and timely scripture lesson was given by Mrs. Hawkes. The Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Huston, as guest artists, sang a duet, "No One Ever Cared for Me Like Jesus." A reading, "A Yank's Prayer Stops a Party," was presented by Mrs. Jones. The program closed with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Huston.

During the business session, the group decided to do its part in the Church College fund and also in a new Community House fund, the house to be built in honor of the boys and girls of the congregation in service. A testament was sent to Cecil Eugene Clark who is serving in the U. S. Navy. Mrs. E. L. Pritchard, class president, announced that the date of the next meeting had not been set as the church revival will be in progress from March 5-15.

For the opening program, a transcribed announcement told of the Sunday school attendance. Slogans were identified by means of a spellword, with Mrs. James Cook as prize winner. Mrs. Walter Mavis gave an interesting reading titled, "Somewhere in France." Truth or Consequences resulted in all but Mrs. Paul Woodward suffering the consequences. By request of the audience, Mrs. Charles Ater and Mrs. Hawkes sang a patriotic number, "The Song of the Flag."

A very interesting newscast on coming events was presented by Mrs. Hawkes, followed by a transcribed announcement of church attendance by Mrs. Jones. Fortunes were distributed as the members and guests filed by the microphone, the fortunes telling whom they would be with, where they would be and what they would be doing in 10 years.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Roby and the co-hostesses, Mrs. Earl and Mrs. Carl Radcliff and Mrs. Turney Ross. Mrs. Chester Starkey won the prize for the evening.

Need for Cooperation of Farmers, Businessmen, Labor Urged.

HERBERT EVANS SPEAKS BEFORE C OF C MEETING

People Must Work Out Own Problems, F. B. C. Director Declares

"The American people must work out their own problems instead of getting someone else to do it for them or we will be in an awful mess," Herbert E. Evans, personnel director of the Farm Bureau Cooperative association, Columbus, told members of the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce Tuesday night.

Pointing out some of the problems America will face after the war ends Mr. Evans said that co-operation of farmers, businessmen and labor will be necessary to keep the country from plunging into chaos. "We are facing much distortion and trouble of all kinds, but also a great opportunity," he declared.

He said that 8,500,000 workers will be forced to change jobs immediately after Germany falls. Twice that many will change when Japan is finally beaten, the speaker said. Added to the confusion this will cause is the problem of returning servicemen for whom jobs must be found. Mr. Evans stated that although their former jobs were guaranteed them under the selective service act some government officials state that only about 19% of the men in service can legally demand their jobs back.

Boosts Free Enterprise
The speaker said that he was a great believer in free enterprise and that only through that kind of business can the United States expect a period of prosperity. He said that merchants should learn that they are servants of the public.

He said that farmers could work out their own problems without government help. Small business men also can solve their problems by working together instead of "growing at everybody." "Business, farming and labor can settle their problems together if they think them out and work them out and quit growling at each other," Mr. Evans declared.

R. C. Palm, president of the senior chamber, presided at the joint meeting held in Betz restaurant. He turned the meeting over to Boyd Stout, president of the Jaycees, for their regular business meeting. Mr. Stout announced a distinguished service award would be presented at the next meeting set for February 27.

Directors Elected
Mack Parrett, secretary of the senior chamber, announced the results of the election of directors. The 11 directors chosen are: Russ C. Palm, Hal Dean, Norbert L. Cochran, George C. Griffith, Herschel Hill, J. D. Hummel, Paul A. Johnson, Ben H. Gordon, W. C. Kochheiser, I. W. Kinsey, Dan McClain.

Secretary Parrett, in his annual report, said the outstanding accomplishments of the last year was the work of the organization toward the field house project. He cited also among the accomplishments the part the organization played in endorsing and aiding city council in steps toward obtaining the city water plant and promoting and securing the county basketball tournament for Circleville.

President Palm outlined some of the projects under consideration for the future, chief of which is a building code. He said the organization should work towards the adoption of a building code for the further development of the city.

Farmer Ware Baker gave the okay, and a plane from Marion, Ind., and one from Chicago landed with the vital parts. Production was not halted for a minute.

County Residents Get First Chance To Donate Blood To Own Fighters

Pickaway county residents will get their first chance to dedicate their blood to relatives or friends in service when the Red Cross blood donor mobile unit comes to Circleville February 26 and 27.

The new plan became effective December 7, 1944, in response to requests from blood donors throughout the country to personalize their gifts of blood to men in service. This is the first visit to Circleville of the mobile unit since the program was started.

For each pint of blood donated the donor will be allowed to inscribe a label in his own handwriting with his name and the name of the serviceman or woman in whose honor the donation was made. The labels will be pasted on the outside of standard Army-Navy packages of plasma and shipped overseas.

Hal Dean, chairman of the Pickaway county committee, said today the need for blood is even greater than when the new program was started. Finishing up battles in Europe and the increased tempo of the Pacific war mean that more blood plasma is needed for the increased number of injured men.

Mr. Dean pointed out that in the processing laboratories plasma from many donors is mixed and that the plasma in the package on which the donor's inscribed label is pasted may not necessarily contain any of the plasma secured from that particular donor's own blood. Also inscribing a label in someone's honor does not mean that the donor's blood goes directly to that person as plasma is not shipped to individuals but to the Army and Navy medical officers who administer it to any wounded man who may need it, often right up in the front lines.

The labels will be brought to Circleville when the Red Cross mobile unit comes here February 26 and 27 and those wishing to make a donation should call 258 at once for an appointment.

salesman in the world. Talk anybody into anything."

Which is praise indeed, coming from a man who's a fair salesman himself.

Rockwell has been lobstering seriously for two years. He has his own power boat and 40 pots which he operates himself. That knitting he's doing in idle moments now is in the hope of achieving about 100 pots so when he goes back to Southport he can make up for lost time.

It's Winter in Manhattan, but up there in Doc's dressing room it's dawn of a Summer morning on the Maine coast and you're putting out in the boat, just itching to get your hands on the line and pull in that first lobster pot.

This week's opening was "The Stranger," a thriller by Leslie Reade about a Jack-The-Ripper in London in 1888. The producer is Shepard Traube, who produced that great spine-tingler called "Angel Street," which ran for three years on Broadway. The new one is no "Angel Street."
